The Collateral Benefits of Good Fund Raising Project

A Fundraising feature
submitted by Director Shannon Sylvestre

There are many collateral benefits that come from a good fund raising project. The most obvious of which is that it directly benefits the target beneficiaries of the service projects. More importantly, it is an important part of Rotary branding – it promotes Rotary as a humanitarian service organisation and increases public awareness of Rotary's programmes. The public awareness that is created will attract service minded people to join Rotary, as well as, allow charitable people who are unable to find the time and opportunity, the opportunity to help the less fortunate in our community.

At its root, a successful fund raiser will promote stronger fellowship among Rotarians as well as supporters and this will bring the members closer together. The valuable experience gained in organising fund raising projects will also keep your club in good stead for the future and you can grow from strength to strength. Ultimately, the personal satisfaction you will derive from successfully carrying out a fund raising project is what it's all about.

"The secret of fundraising is being convinced of the need, having the courage to ask and not being discouraged when someone says no. You'll get a donation about every fourth person, so just keep asking. And you'll get something eventually from the person who turned you down the last time — if you ask again next time."

One of our PDGs once famously said, "We Rotarians are professional beggars!" How True. But we are beggars with a cause and therefore must be undeterred in our efforts to raise money for the benefit of our community. Fund raising therefore, is an important and integral part of what every effective Rotary club must do. We have the credibility and reputation with which we can be effective fund raisers for any charitable objective. The more fund raising we do, the more beneficial projects we can carry out in the community.

Always be guided by what the MOP (Manual of Procedure) says:
"In participating in or identifying with any plans to collect funds, or any other activity, a club should be continually careful not to indulge in undignified practices that do not contribute to the strengthening of the club's prestige."

Always be guided by what the MOP says:
"In participating in or identifying with any plans to collect funds, or any other activity, a club should be continually careful not to indulge in undignified practices that do not contribute to the strengthening of the club's prestige."

Always be guided by what the MOP says:
"In participating in or identifying with any plans to collect funds, or any other activity, a club should be continually careful not to indulge in undignified practices that do not contribute to the strengthening of the club's prestige."

The key therefore is to carry out – meaningful and reputable fund raisers.

New Benches for the Barcadere

Sunrisers gathered early at Smith Barcadere to install three new benches at that popular beach location. As always, effort was followed by fellowship as President Andrea provided sustenance for the team. The club's Head Paparazzi Jonathan Adam has more great photos on the club's home page at www.RotarySunrise.ky.

As Director Barbara notes: "We had a whopping 16 people come out at 7 in the morning to help with the assembly of 3 picnic tables that Community Services Committee donated to the park. After discussing our offer with the Acting General Manager of the Dept of Recreation, Parks and Cemeteries Unit, Mr. Mark Bothwell, he was very happy to have us donate the tables for the betterment of the park. This lovely beach area is very popular amongst local residents and visitors and as it offers lots of natural shade from all the trees, it is the perfect place to bring a lunch and enjoy the afternoon, snorkeling, swimming or just enjoying the breeze and the beauty all around.

Everyone showed up ready for work, but to our surprise, the folks at ALT's had already assembled the tables for us, even though I asked them not to! It was very nice of them to do that, however, I think there was a bit of disappointment from some of our crew who were looking forward to a little work. We located the perfect spots for our tables and we all grabbed an end and moved them to their new locations under the trees. President Andrea was kind enough to go and buy breakfast for the group, so on her return, we gathered around and shared food and fellowship. It was a very pleasant start to our weekend and we were all on our way by 8:30. Please be sure to go out to the park and enjoy the new tables with your family and friends. We are having placards made up indicating they were donated by Rotary Sunrise."

Getting to Know: John Lee

Dr. John Lee prefers to be called John. He started off life in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, in 1963. However, his father's family is from Singapore and his mother's from North Yorkshire, UK. John moved to Singapore aged five, and then off to boarding school aged eleven - his father was not coping well as a single Dad and his mother had always hoped her two children would go to school in England.

Despite desires to train as an accountant, he was advised to be a doctor and got into medical school in 1983 after a taking a year out. His career progression from then was a pretty standard progression focusing on general medical training, intensive care, anaesthesia and then pain medicine, largely in London and East Anglia. His last job in the UK was twelve happy years as a Consultant in Pain Medicine at the National Hospital for Neurology & Neurosurgery, UCL Hospitals. He tries to get back to Singapore when he can where he has lots of people to visit.

John enjoys road cycling and has organised some big trips: he has been on multiple jaunts over the Alps, e.g. from Geneva to Nice, the Pyrenees, around the mountains of Southern Spain (Ronda), as well as the Southern Alps in New Zealand and the Canadian Rockies (Vancouver to Calgary). His home in the UK is in the glorious Yorkshire Dales which provides an ever changing panorama of English countryside at its best: dry stone walls, tiny hamlets, rivers, picturesque villages, great walking and cycling, and of course, there may be one or two pubs serving Black Sheep! He also enjoys photography (note his accompanying photo entitled "From the Isle of Skye, 2011") and is an avid Mac fan. He has been invited by Apple to be a tester for Mac software for many years running. He's also not a bad cook (something that comes from his father) and can often be persuaded to cook a Malaysian chicken or Thai green curry. He is very happy to be in Cayman (another tropical melting pot) and has been touched by the warm welcome of its people, and especially that of Rotary Sunrise.
